REPUBLICAN STATE LEAGUE MEETING.

To the Republican Clubs of West Virginia To the Republican Clubs of West Virginia.
The annual meeting of the Republican State League Clubs of West Virginia will be held in the city of Charleston on Wednesday, March 25, 1896, for the purpose of electing officers for the coming Pagr. considering plans for a permanent organization and the election of delegates te the National League meeting.
Each club is allowed five delegates and five alternates.

Each club is allowed five delegates and five alternates.

Republicans are urged to organize clubs at once and send the name of the club and list of officers to the president, at Charleston, immediately. A full attendance is desired at this the opening meeting of the presidental campaign. The work of organizing clubs should be pressed with vicer at once.

By order of the committee.

A Remarkable Suggestion.

If the Democratic party accepts the advice of ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio, who is prominently mentioned in connection with the Democratic presi-dential nomination, it will succeed in placing itself on record as a party totally without principle.

In an interview in the Washington

Post Governor Campbell gave utterance to the following remarkable, not to say nstounding sentiments:

Is prescribe no medicine I will not take. For myself I will say through the Fost hal. whatever the Chicago take form and shower the chicago take will support to the condition of the condition of the chicago take the condition of the chicago take of the support of the chicago take of the condition of the chicago take of the condition of the chicago take of the chic presence, in the ticket and do my put-fit through put-fit through. If, on the other hand, the plaform declares for independent silver coinages it to Lesilver monometalism. If you please—and the utter death of gold as a meany metal, and selects condidates to correspond, yet I will give my heartlest support to the ticket and work with a zeal and arder to secure a victory.

rding to this man who stands a show of being the nominee of his party for the high office of President of the United States, principle must be smerificed in order that the discordant ments may be held together for the sake of success. If a platform is to be adopted it must be with the understanding that it doesn't mean anything. If it declares for sound money, then the free silver men should accept it at the sacrifice of their principles "to keep up the organization." If it declares for the dramization.

free diver, the gold Democrats mist accept it rather than jeopardize the chance of the Democratic party retaining the offices. Any sort of a pill must be swallowed, right or wrong, and vital interests be samificed for what? Simply to secure Democratic harmony

And when great leaders of the national Democratic party advocate such a policy, what are the rank and file of the party-those who are Democrats from principle, to expect? Are they to understand that the Democracy sh go before the country this year without a sincere declaration of principles, and rely wholly upon the harmonious work of a patched up machine, whose component parts do not agree with each other when a campaign is not on, for

Governor Campbell continues:
Yet I believe both of these proposals of finance would be wrong. I do not agree with either to lee a national success again, men must learn that minorities must yield to majorities, and that the irredon of bolt and split must be done awar.

And what would be the meaning of Democratic success under such circumstances? The party would (let us strain at the supposition) elect a President and Congress. Then what would the people and the business interests of the country know what to expect? There would be such a state of uncertainty as would plunge this country into a financial panic the like of which the world has never dreamed of before. "Every man," says Governor Campbell, "should go to the Chicago convention pledged to accept the platform, no matter what it declares for. Any other man has no business in the convention." In other words, Democrats with prin-ciples, with opinions of their own, need of sacrificing their principles for the spice of public plunder are wanted.

If this is to be the programme it is high time for decent Democrats who believe in individual sovereignty to do some tall thinking.

It seems that McElnley's managers have even had the boldness to buy up the business men of Chicago and turn them loose as a McKinley propoganda. It must have taken as much money to but what does that matter so long as victory is in sight? The only rich can-didate in the field is Governor Morton. How does it happen that he allows all these things to happen?

McKinley and the Democratic Press It is a significant fact, and it is set-ting Republicans to thinking, that the Democratic press is reproducing, with favorable comment, everything that is being said and done against Major Mc-Kinley by Republicans who are op-posing him for the nomination.

Senators Chandler and Cullom have recently made some statements calcu-lated to prejudice the public against McKinley. Everybody understands why they have done this. Mr. Chandler is supporting another candidate, Mr. while Mr. Cullom is himself a candidate for the nomination. Democratic editors have eagerly grasp-ed upon their statements, and are dish-ing them up as sweet morsels.

It is a matter which is beginning to attract the attention of the country that Major Mckinley has the united opposition of the Democratic free trade press, and that the combine against the great champion of protection has its united support.

This means something. It means that the Democratic press and politicians fully realize that McKinley is the popular choice of the Republicans of the country, the favorite of the masses of the plain people, and the strongest man in the field. The Democratic press does not want him nominated. This is the reason why the demand for him is growing, and why he is stronger to-day as a presidential factor than ever before.

Whoever is the nominee of the St. Louis convention will receive the united support of the Republicans of the whole country, but the nomination will be made without the assistance of the Democratic newspapers. Even the Wheel-ing Register, which is waging such a bitter war against Major McKinley will not be consulted

We may have to show the visiting statesmen from Washington the river as we would like it to be.

Two Object Lessons.

Philadelphia furnishes two tariff ob ject lessons. For more than forty years Robert Callaghan has owned and operated the Angora mills, located in a sub-urb of Philadelphia. The mills made cotton and woolen products.

A little village had grown up around them, and here Mr. Callaghan owned fifty-six brick houses. Now he is compelled to suspend with liabilities at $450,000 and assets valued at $550,000. Four hundred operatives are thrown out of employment. The Wilson tariff is the cause of the failure.

James Long, Brothers & Co., another Philadelphia concern, manufacturers of dress goods, have failed for a large amount. They were stocked up heavily with goods for which they could not find sale. While American manufac-turers are going under foreign manufacturers in the same line are reaping a harvest in the American market.

In spite of free wool the golden days for American manufacturers have not come. Instead there is the worst market for woolens known to this genera-tion. The cheaper foreign labor, helped on by the Wilson bill, is doing the busi-

Nobody in this country has gained by the change. The American wool grower has lost. The American manufacturer has lost. The operatives in American mills have lost. The treasury has lost. It has been a losing venture on a gigantic scale. It will take some time for the country to recover, but under the policy of protection it will recover.

With_140,660 troops in Cuba Spain is powerless to put down the revolt. Not only so, but she cannot hold back the dashing patriots. No wonder Weyler is thinking of going back to Spain. The job cut out for him is beyond any man. It is the fate of Spain to lose Cuba, the destiny of Cuba to be free

If General Weyler be correctly re ported he is getting his Spanish eyes open to the situation in Cubs. According to the dispatch from Madrid he makes two interesting points.

The hope of recognition by the United States is strengthening the Cuban cause, has put fresh heart into the patriots and brought men flocking to their standard, "even from the capitol, Ha-vana." Furthermore the attitude of the Congress of the United States "stops the normal development of the war."

This is a complete and conclusive anwer to the criticism that recognition of Cuban belligerency can do the Cubans no good. If the mere agitation of the question can produce these resultsquestion can produce these results— giving strength to the Cuban cause and paralyzing the Spanish arm-much more for Cuba is to be expected from the act of recognition.

What Weyler is quoted as saying is so good for Cuba and the Cubans that it will not be surprising if he shall see his way clear to deny that he said any thing of the kind.

If the Ohlo river will kindly behave itself while our Washington visitors are here, it will materially aid in the effort to secure it a new outfit in the shape of improvements that will enable it to be of increased value to the great country through which it takes its course,

Triumph Over Blackmail

The tribunal which tried the Rev. Dr Brown, of San Francisco, could not have done less than exonerate him. He was the victim of the infamous art of the blackmailer, and he has fought a good fight for himself and for all men of character. It was a terrible ordeal out he has passed through it with man ly courage and his enemies are at his

If every man set upon by the blackmailer would strike back with all his might there would be fewer blackmailing schemes. The work of the blackmailer is very much helped by the horror most men have of a public accu sation. They fear that no matter what they may prove there will be a suspicion that they have played with pitch.

Mr. Cousins, of Iowa, is a sensible man whose example may well be emulated by new members of the house. Mr. Cousins is now in his second term. During his first term he sawed wood. #### A Tax on Oll.

Ohio will make a mistake and do an injustice if it puts on the product of its oil wells a tax of five cents a barrel is proposed, or any tax at all. single out this industry to be burdened as it is not in any other state?

as it is not in any other state.

There is no immorality in producing petroleum. It is a legitimate industry which brings money into the state, helps the landowners, makes employment for labor and adds to the supply of an article of general household use

To put a tax on this commodity would be to say that Ohio wishes to arrest the development of her oll territory. On a narrow margin a five-cent tax might easily be decisive. It is inconceivable that Ohio will fall into this blunder.

All this talk about Republicans straddling the sliver question is the veriest demagagy. The record of the present Republican house of representatives is sufficient answer to all of it. By overwhelming majority the house has voted down every free silver proposi-tion that has been offered.

THE M'KINLEY CAMPAIGN.

How it is Being Systematically Managed. Popular Unsolicited Subscriptions from All Classes of People—The Masses for Him Against the Bosses.

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: There has probably never been a candidate for President in this country who entered the canvass so thoroughly has entered the canvass so thoroughiy, and so systematically as Governor McKinley. The machinery of his canvass is marvelously perfect and effective. All over the state men who believe in McKinley and the great principle of protection that he represents are comping forward with their means to aid his candidacy with a spontaneity that is most significant. Unsolicited funds are being raised in a great many of the cities and towns of the state of Ohio to boom Ohio's favorite son, to provide for the legitimate expenses of the McKinley campaigm. This generous feeling toward the "Little Napoleon" shows the place that he occupies in the hearts of the people of his native state and the tremendous hold he has on the affections of the masses. It is that is going to nominate him in spite of the scheming of self-seeking politicians who are his natural tocs.

McKinley has the masses, not only of Ohio, but of the entire country, with him, and his momination will not be the first time that the masses, moved by one thought and one sentiment, have overthrown the political bosses. The McKinley manngers are not depending wholly upon the great popular ground sarely, in his favor, but are giving a large part of their attention to the ort. In every state of the union good men are on guard, looking out for the Schinley increasts. In point of extensive probably has the advantage of any of the other presidential candidates, and his organization will be doubly active and alert from now on until the St. Louis convention.

Hon. Mark A. Hanna is the direct that Tom Platt sneers at them as amateurs in the grand science of politics. Joseph P. Smith is in charge of the McKinley surportions, and is growing in volume every day.

And there is astue and suave W. M. Hahn, member of the Republican mational committee, who sleeps with one eye open, and never misses a movement made by the mannagers of the rival candidates. Nothing either favorable or unfavorable to McKinley buttons have already been sent out over the country, and they are producing a

SWIMMING BY TROLLEY.

Anyone May Learn to Swim with Perfect Security. New York Herald: Swimming by trolley is the latest innovation in the world of sports. One may see the novelty in operation in the tank of the New Manhattan Athletic Club, over in Madison avenue. It is fine fun, aithough of course, there is ne electricity about it. You need not know anything at all about awimming to enjoy the fun. You supply the motive power—the trolley does the rest. And what a joy it is for the poor devils who were too tenderly guarded in their boyhood to learn how to swim! They simply tumble in and paddle away, as if they knew all about the art and mystery of natation.

The trolley wire used to be about 100 feet long, extending from one end of the swimming tank to the other, but Fred L. Balmes, the inventor of the plan, found the distance too great for comfort and shortened the wire, so that it now runs diagonally across the tank and extends only forty feet. The scheme is as simple as A B. C. The wire hangs about two feet above the surface of the water. The pupil, in swimming, buckles around his body a broad canvas belt that reaches from the shoulders more than half way to the hips. It is fastened with two straps. To the top straps are fastened two or three links of chain, terminating in a bigring that is fastened to a swive!

Armed in this panoply, which isn't half as formidable to wear as it is to read about, the pupil gently sildes down into the water as far as the waist. The trolley wheel is hauled up near him. Then the ring is snapped up on a hook that hangs from the trolley and the pupil is ready for launching. If he is very timid he is coaxed, urged, and prayed to insert himself in that pool. It is surprising how thoroughly afraid bigmen are of the water—not thirsty Kentuckians, either, but sensible fellows, who are really anxious to put water to its normal use by swimming int.

"Trend, are you sure that we won't break?" asked a 200 pound man from Wall street, as he looked up apprehensively at the thin steel ring.

"It will carry a ton." said Balmes reassuringly. Thereupon the gyreat man threw himself flat on the water with great leaps and bounds.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed, as he arriv
